Candidate Information:

Thank you, Ward 2, for trusting me to serve over the last four years on City Council. I am running for re-election because my talents align with what O'Fallon needs right now.

We need leaders with a vision, who are always curious about "what's next," who encourage thoughtful development and most importantly, have a history of building meaningful relationships with residents and community leaders. I value the relationships I have built through service; I am engaged in ways that residents value.

My leadership history highlights my motivation in running for re-election: to serve others. In my current roles, I serve as an Honorary Commander at Scott Air Force Base and am a board member on scholarship and granting boards for both OTHS and District 90 schools. These experiences introduce me to diverse residents who provide great insights into how we can think about ways to enhance our community. Within the city, I serve on several committees and in liaison positions. Collectively, these unique roles enable me to understand our community through a broad lens that improves communication, increases collaboration and positively impacts decision-making.

I intentionally invest time to understand people, projects and ideas. In doing so, I serve as a resource for others, often offering a perspective that has not yet been considered.

With over $327 million in development in recent years, plus another $125 million in approved projects, we have great momentum. For decades, the city has worked hard to ensure we are creating environments that are safe for residents, businesses and investment. I enjoy the challenge of balancing our traditions while considering how we can continue developing O'Fallon as a desirable community for current and future generations.

I would appreciate your vote, Ward 2, to continue in service to others!
